

Study of Spin Dependent Electrochemical Charge Transfer Across the Ferromagnetic Electrode/Solution Interface

Mika Tamski¹, Felix Blumenschein¹, Christophe Roussel^{1,2} and Jean-Philippe Ansermet¹

¹Institute of Physics, Station 3, Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne, 1015 Lausanne-EPFL, Switzerland

²SCGC, Station 6, Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne, 1015 Lausanne-EPFL, Switzerland

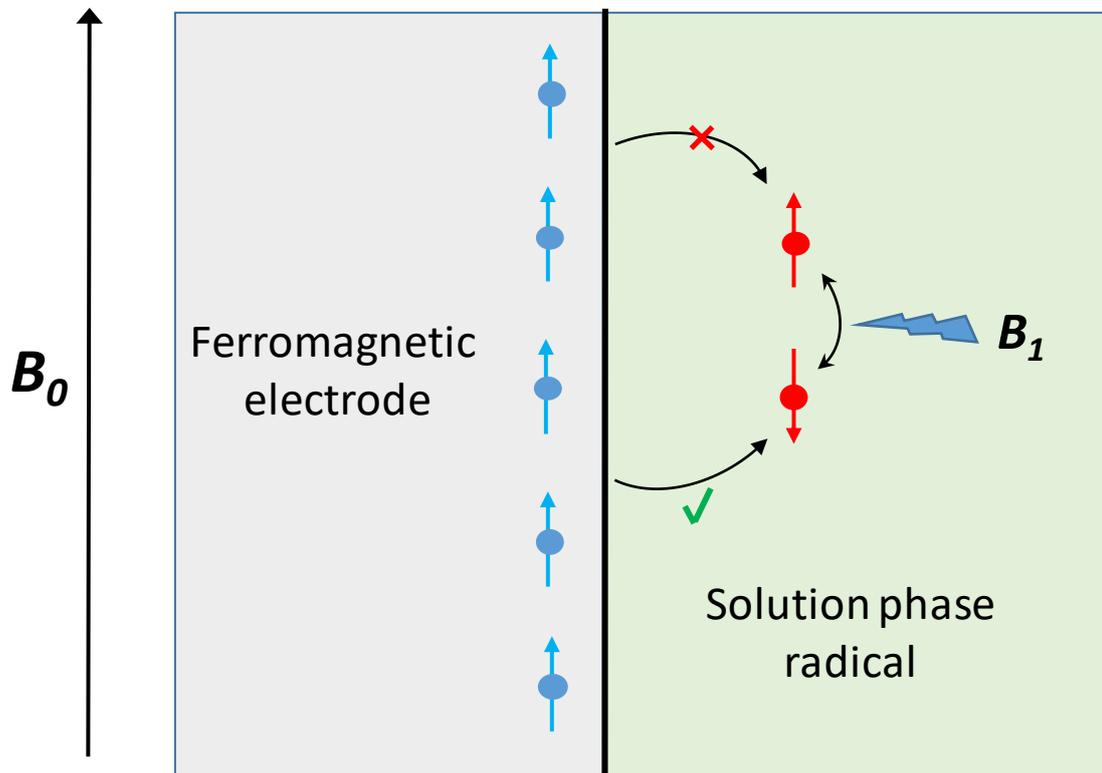

Figure 1: An electrochemical interface between a ferromagnetic electrode and a solution. The electrons from the electrode are transferred to the radical species in the solution preferentially when the spins of the electrons are antiparallel.