

In the AFM image, it can be observed that sample S739 (which does not contain Mn) has not formed well-defined structures, whereas the sizes of these structures are clearly visible in samples S733 and S732. It is evident that the nanostructures in sample S732 are significantly smaller. The results of the DFT calculations are shown in the figure below, indicating that magnetization increases as the nanostructure size decreases.